

Herriot Puts Pact Before Paris Chamber

Radicals' Violent Display Force Painleve to Suspend Sitting of Deputies

EMPHASIZES ARBITRATION

Communist Deputy Shouts "All the Ministers Are Filthy Scoundrels"

By Associated Press
Paris — Premier Herriot put the Dawes reparation plan and the London agreement for making it effective before the chamber of deputies Thursday afternoon and told the members: "I, for my part, have chosen, but nothing final has been done and parliament in its turn, can choose."

Evacuation of the Ruhr, the premier said, had dominated everything at the international conference and he had to choose between the reestablishment of an interrelated entente and the continuance of isolated action.

M. Herriot emphasized that arbitration was the great principle established at the London conference and asserted France would gain by it "for it would need a great deal of optimism to believe that France in the future could gain the majority of votes which enabled her to enter the Ruhr."

The advantages he had obtained at the London conference, the premier insisted, "do not strike the imagination but they are substantial advantages. They will appear considerably to all those who believe with the experts that defaults and penalties must be avoided as much as possible and the reparations problem must be solved peacefully and righteously."

Arbitration, he continued, had "improved most markedly the method of a transfer such as was defined in the Dawes plan and has transformed the regime of payments in kind, which has caused so many difficulties in the past."

The premier asked parliament whether it wanted "to follow chimera, to foster illusion and to repeat you disillusions or to assure to France realities."

SITTING IS SUSPENDED
A violent display by the communists forced Paul Painleve, president of the chamber, to suspend the sitting after the premier had finished his statement. M. Marly's language had been so unrestrained that M. Painleve had at various times warned him but when finally he produced a communist, amnesty poster and waved it from the rostrum M. Painleve put on his hat signifying the session was at an end.

The communists deputy then started to scale the secretary's desk and to occupy the speaker's empty chair but the ushers prevented this move in time and hastily evacuated the chamber and its galleries while the extreme radicals kept on crying "amnesty!"

The phrase which made M. Painleve suspend the sitting was Marly's shouted declaration "all the ministers are filthy scoundrels."

The reparation problem in which France was the most interested party had now been taken from the political to the economic field, the premier continued, and "we have given a very large role to American citizens in our organization which was done designedly."

"We can only rejoice," Mr. Herriot continued, "to have associated with us this great American republic which has witnessed our sufferings and which has all the authority necessary to supervise the execution of the program which was due in a large part to its initiative."

FIRM STAND OF DAWES PLEASES G.O. P. LEADERS

MISGIVINGS ARE DISPELLED

Republican Strategy Will Seek to Gather Conservative Support for Ticket

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1924 by the Post Pub. Co., Washington, D. C.—General Charles G. Dawes' speech of acceptance awakens here among Republicans even more enthusiasm than the address of President Coolidge—not because he expounds the issues any more skillfully but because he takes an aggressive position. An politician like the fire of an attack.

It was the Republican vice presidential nominee's attack on LaFollette and Radicalism, however, which made it inspiring to the Republicans. Whatever misgivings there may have been immediately after the Cleveland convention when General Dawes was nominated over the protest of friends of President Coolidge who feared the effect of General Dawes' anti-labor utterances, there is no doubt now that since LaFollette has entered the race and labor has endorsed LaFollette, the Republicans are more than glad of a champion of the Dawes type who appeals to the conservative business interest of the country.

ANGLE FOR CONSERVATIVES
The whole Republican strategy now is to gather Democratic and Republican conservatives under the Coolidge-Dawes banner without making any effort particularly to coax the radicals into line. There are more conservative Republicans than there are radicals, especially those of the extreme type. Mr. Dawes concedes that John W. Davis is safe and sound but argues that the three cornered fight may deadlock the contest and make Governor Bryan president. The Democrats will use the same argument no doubt to convince labor that by voting for LaFollette they are throwing their votes away.

"But as an example of Republican doctrine which fits in with the desires of the conservatives who think the only way to kill LaFollette and radicalism is to knock it into the head by strong utterances, the speech of General Dawes is the first gun in what may be expected to be a vigorous offensive on his part all through the campaign. His prestige in connection with the settlement of the reparations problem has given him more than ordinary powers to attract attention. He is not the usual kind of vice-presidential candidate. His speeches will draw crowds and will be read. So while the silent Calvin Coolidge will conduct the dignified campaign of a president seeking continuance in power, the vice presidential nominee will be engaged in "rough and tumble" game of politics and hit hard. His speech of acceptance was along that line. He called Senator LaFollette by name and condemned his program unequivocally. From now on there will be no quarter."

DAWES IS ANSWER
General Dawes, moreover, is to be the animated answer to the criticism that the Republicans have done nothing on foreign policy. Every day news dispatches tell of the operation of what has been called the Dawes plan. If Europe begins an era of recovery and prosperity is reflected back to America, the Republicans will keep on talking about the Dawes plan. The speech of the vice presidential candidate contains no new promises of constructive legislation but argues that the policy of LaFollette is unsafe and unsound and that the sure way to avoid it is to stick to the conservative band wagon with a tick at that is conservative at both ends.

The suggestion of General Dawes that the Democrats are "straddling" between the two extremes is a keynote in itself. It is what the Republican managers will try to accomplish in the campaign—they want the public to have the impression that the fight is between radicalism and conservatism of a common sense sort and that there is no middle ground.

The speech of John D. Davis at Columbus next week is looked forward to now as the next development in the campaign for in it no doubt there will be an answer to the questions raised by General Dawes.

NEW YORK—Before departing for Seagirt, N. J., where he plans to fire the first broadside against President Coolidge's position as the nominee of the Republican party Friday, John W. Davis will confer here with Clem L. Shaver, his campaign manager, and other party leaders on general campaign plans.

Mr. Shaver is returning from the west to supplement reports made by telegraph concerning what he regards as a favorable drift in that section to the Democratic national ticket. He already has advised the presidential nominee that the people in the west are anxious to hear Mr. Davis.

While Mr. Davis has determined to strike into the west early next month, his itinerary even in its most early stages remains to be fixed definitely.

Bryan Hurt As Car Tips

Terre Haute, Ind. — William Jennings Bryan was injured early Wednesday evening when an automobile in which he was traveling from Tuscola to Mattoon, Ill., turned over on the highway.

Mr. Bryan was bruised and cut about the head and face but was able to give a scheduled lecture on arrival at Mattoon. News of the accident was withheld Wednesday night at Mr. Bryan's request for the reason that he did not want Mrs. Bryan, who is ill at her home in Florida, to know of the injury.

Star Gazers Sceptic As Mars Nears

By Associated Press
Los Angeles, Calif.—Astronomers at the Mount Wilson observatory near here are not even going to look for evidence of life on Mars Friday when that planet makes its periodic parade past the earth, but they are willing to have anyone who believes Mars inhabited drop in for a $4,000,000-mile birds eye view. Realizing that Mars is of special interest to the lay mind, the astronomers said Thursday they would lend one of their big telescopes—the largest has a 100-inch lens—to anyone who will climb the 5,000-foot mountain in the hope of surprising a Martian or two on a canal bank.

The staff of the observatory is not at all excited over the near approach of the planet, which usually lingers somewhere around 48,000,000 miles from the earth. Photographs will be taken of it as a matter of observatory routine, but the astronomers insist they do not expect their places to show anything startling.

ALL ATTENDANCE RECORDS BROKEN BY SEYMOUR FAIR

Officials Estimate 25,000 People Bought Tickets on Wednesday

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Seymour—All records for attendance at the Seymour fair were shattered Wednesday when 25,000 people crowded inside the inclosure for the afternoon and evening fair. Fair officials estimated the afternoon crowd at 15,000 and the evening crowd at 10,000.

Hundreds of Appleton people were in the crowd and there were visitors from most of the surrounding towns and cities.

An unusually excellent program of free attractions, baseball games and horse races was held in the afternoon, and the pyrotechnic display in the evening rivalled the best ever seen in Wisconsin.

Exhibits of livestock are above the average but the farm produce exhibits are meagre, because of the late season.

LaFollette and Wheeler Confer with Managers to Arrange Stump Tours
By Associated Press
Washington, D. C.—Leading strategists of the LaFollette-Wheeler organization gathered Thursday to work out itineraries for the two candidates and formulate a definite program of activities for their supporters.

The return Wednesday night of Senator Wheeler, running mate of the independent candidate for president, from his three weeks vacation in Massachusetts, enabled Attorney General Ekern of Wisconsin, director of the solicitation of campaign funds from the public, and David K. Niles, acting head of the speakers' bureau, to begin a series of conferences with them which will be joined probably Saturday by Representative Nelson of Wisconsin, the national campaign manager.

The itineraries of the candidates themselves presented the principal task before the conferees, although a number of other problems are to be considered.

CHANGE OF VENUE TAKEN IN NEENAH DRIVER TRIAL

2 Killed At Soo Line Crossing At Neenah

Apparently confused by the lights of an automobile coming from the opposite direction, two Greek restaurant men of Fond du Lac were instantly killed about 9:30 Wednesday night when they crashed into a box car at the Wisconsin-ave crossing of the Soo line, railroad at Neenah. They were John Stathopoulos, part owner of the Modern lunch at Fond du Lac, and William Katsas, employed at the restaurant.

Stathopoulos formerly was employed by Claud Snider at his restaurant here.

The two Greeks, driving into Neenah from Fond du Lac, apparently failed to see the flagman who was making a frantic effort to stop them, and smashed into the front of the boxcar which was being switched across the street. The car coming from the opposite direction stopped at the rail crossing.

The box car caught the automobile and turned it over and over along the track until it struck an obstruction when the box car climbed on top of the wreckage. The two men were in the car when the flagman and other witnesses of the accident ran to the machine.

The fire department was called to assist in removing the bodies and it was necessary to cut away the debris in order to extricate them.

BOY DROWNED
Neenah—Anthony, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Thomas, was drowned when he fell into the muddy waters of a slough here Wednesday afternoon. The lad was fishing with his aged grandfather off a bridge which passes over the slough. He was unable to swim and an undercurrent carried him downstream. His body was found 45 minutes later. Efforts to resuscitate him were in vain.

Daring Aces Hop Off For Icy Journey

Italian Airman Joins Americans in Trip to Fredericksdal in Greenland

WEATHER IS FAVORABLE
Commander and Mechanic Stay Up All Night to Prepare for Early Takeoff

By Associated Press
Reykjavik, Iceland—The American round-the-world fliers and Lieutenant Locatelli, Italian airman, hopped off from here at 8:15 Thursday morning. The fliers passed the United States cruiser Richmond, on patrol about 70 miles off the coast of Iceland at 9:35. Lieutenant Locatelli was leading his American companions, Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith and Lieutenant Erik H. Nelson by five miles.

The weather was beautiful and flying conditions were excellent when the aviators set out for Greenland. Lieutenant Smith's plane lifted from the water a few minutes after 8 o'clock and Lieutenant Nelson's plane was off two minutes later.

Lieutenant Locatelli, who caught up with the Americans in order to accompany them across the Atlantic after a lone flight from Pisa, Italy, got off eleven minutes after Lieutenant Nelson. All of the takeoffs were made easily, none of the fliers having the slightest difficulty in jockeying from the water.

Lieutenant Smith, the flight commander, had been up all night recording weather reports and working out plans for coping with weather and mechanical conditions which he and Lieutenant Nelson might encounter during the long and hazardous jump to the shores of Greenland.

Lieutenant John Harding, Jr., mechanic on Lieutenant Nelson's plane, had been up all night, but he left his room only to go on board the plane, declaring it was his duty to take care of the machine during the last hours here. Because of the early departure there were very few persons present when the machines set out.

The fliers are heading for Fredericksdal near Cape Farwell at the southern tip of Greenland, a hop of approximately 325 miles, according to the plans which were adopted after bad ice and weather conditions in the north Atlantic had forced them to abandon their original intention to make the shorter flight to Angmagssalik or to another harbor 20 miles north of there which later also was found to be icebound.

CHURCHMAN HITS JAP EXCLUSION

Measure Will Affect America Adversely by Forcing Increased Armament

By Associated Press
Chautauque, N. Y.—"Grave consequences are following as a result of the way in which Japanese exclusion was brought about by the recent action of congress," said Dr. Sidney L. Guilek, secretary of the commission on international justice and good will of the Federal Council of Churches Thursday at the institute on international relations from the Christian point of view. The meeting is under the auspices of the Federal Council of Churches.

"A billion self respecting men and women of the far east," he declared, "will inevitably resent the act of congress. Illwill and suspicion will grow. America also will suffer in that this illwill and resentment which may not necessarily lead to war, will cause demand for the expenditure of hundreds of millions of dollars for defense on the Pacific coast."

"Shall America, professing in words to love peace, yet follow principles and procedures that involve militarism and perhaps ultimate war? Shall America be obedient to the ideals and spirit of Christ or to the ideals and spirit of Mars? A concrete issue now confronts the people of America."

CHARGES BUSSES IGNORE SCHEDULE FIXED BY COUNCIL

Alderman McGilligan Wants Investigation of All Bus Lines in City

Alleged failure to comply with the regulations of the state railroad commission on the part of William Reberg, operator of the Kimberly bus, will be investigated by A. C. Rosser, city attorney, as a result of action started by the police and license committee.

The committee had reported the application of Reberg's bus license to the common council without recommendation because as Alderman R. F. McGilligan explained, the operator had failed to carry out the schedule it had submitted to the railroad commission. Mr. McGilligan also charged that other busses were following schedules contrary to city ordinance and asked for an investigation of all busses.

When the bus operator applied to the railroad commission for a state license, he named the south river route, the Kimberly route. Later he switched over to the Seymour route and later to Kimberly route via the north side of the Fox river, without obtaining the commission's consent, it was said. Mr. McGilligan also told the council Wednesday that other busses in the city are not leaving according to the schedule fixed by the common council, which is that no bus following the route of a street car shall leave within 10 minutes of the leaving time of the street cars.

Count 615 Bobbed Heads Among 1,200 Women On Appleton's Main Street

Women of Appleton have expressed their opinion of bobbed hair in action, as well as in words. It has been the men who have decided short locks and who have done all the bustling about women wearing their crowning glory, (which often is more of a nuisance than a glory anyway) while the women have smiled serenely and continued to cut their hair. People who dislike bobbed hair have delighted in saying that soon bobbed hair will be passe and that women will soon be planning on switches and artificial hair. To this the multitude of bobbed heads have replied that if that time ever arrives they will suffer with the other bobbed-haired women, but why worry about it until the time comes. To obtain freedom one must always revolt and the bobbed hair revolution is the current war to obtain freedom from tight pugs, they say.

To learn the percentage of women with bobs and those with long tresses a count was taken between 2:45 and 3:35 on the north side of College-ave between Appleton and Oneida-sts, a time when most women are shoppers and a section of town where the trade is busiest. The count revealed that out of 1,215 women, 615 had bobbed hair and 600 had long hair, giving the bobbed-haired women a slight margin.

It would be erroneous to presume that the women with bobbed hair were all youthful, for included in the passers-by were women with graying hair cut quite short and worn curled or straight, mothers, with two or three children trailing at their heels and stout women who seemed to find the short hair a comfort during the warm days.

The majority of short-haired women were between the ages of 14 and 40, but occasionally women older than that passed by, unashamedly flaunting bobbed hair.

With the crowd that passed was a little woman with hair slicked tight back and concealed as much as possible under an unbecoming hat; here was a mother whose bobbed hair made her look like one of the children that tagged with her; near them was a bobbed-haired girl who had neglected to keep her hair nice or the line of the bob even; following the first three was a woman whose long hair was embowed in a becoming way that enhanced her appearance. Here was a girl who had cut her hair short and curled it so that it stood on ends like that of a Fiji Islander.

Still another girl had slicked her bob back until it followed the line of her head. One little miss had her curly locks tied back with a ribbon while her companion was a girl with straight hair combed back from the face in a severe but becoming manner. Cloopatra had nothing on one little dark haired miss who had bobbed her hair in the most approved "King Tut" style, embellishing her head with "snakey" earings.

With a little boy of six was a smartly dressed woman with bobbed hair, rouged cheeks and scarlet lips. Another woman with a little boy had her face free from cosmetics, but she followed the bobbed hair dictum with the rest of her sisters. It indeed was hard to discern between mother and daughter, to tell older sister from the younger or grandmother from mother.

CHARGE APPLETON MAN WAS "FAKE" MOTORCOP

William V. Amsbaugh, said to be a former Appleton resident, has been stripped of his constable's badge by Chief of Police Lawrence J. Lane of South Bend, Ind., for alleged irregularities in patrolling the roads in search of automobile speeders. The last city directory issued in Appleton gives the address of a William Amsbaugh as 567 Lawest, but he is no longer living there.

Amsbaugh said he received his badge and commission from Justice Plante of that city, but Justice Plante denies that he gave the man any commission. The traffic cop had been arresting speeders and accepting fines from them, it is said, and attracted a "squeak" from Brownie of the Milwaukee Journal as well as from members of the South Bend Motor club. Other proceedings are said to be in prospect for Amsbaugh. Meanwhile motorists are no longer afflicted by the South Bend speed trap.

GUARD CAPTAIN AWAITS ORDERS ON DEFENSE DAY

Grundeman Denies He Has Ordered Company Out for Special Drill

Exception was taken Wednesday night by Captain E. F. Grundeman of Co. D, 127th Infantry, to the statement in The Post-Crescent Wednesday that the company would be ordered out for a special drill on National Defense Day which is to be observed all over the country on Sept. 12. It was stated on the authority of a guardsman that the company would be ordered out for drill on that day. In spite of the declaration of Governor Blaine and Adjutant General Immet that the Wisconsin guard will not be given permission to participate in defense day programs.

"The statement that the guard company will be called out for special drill to participate in the defense day program was not authorized by me," Captain Grundeman said. "The participation of Co. D will result only from orders from higher authority."

"The company is willing to assist in any possible way in the program but we have no authority to take part as yet. A tentative drill schedule is being prepared and will be submitted to the adjutant general for approval."

With a Victrola you choose the music, the artists and the hour

Every music-lover treasures the memory of some concert, some operatic performance, some music event in which a favorite artist has appeared. The Victrola and Victor Records only, permit you to recall such cherished hours in the most realistic way; permit you to arrange such programs at such times as the artists themselves might do if they played for you alone. Even then it would be impossible to receive in a single evening one-tenth of the artists whose great gifts are at your disposal at any moment through Victor Records and Victrola Instruments.

DOUBLE-FACED
Number Price
[A Love Song (Sant-Lovet) John McCormack] 1020 $1.50
[Little Yvette (Westbury-Wood) John McCormack]

Charming melodious songs, the first one from "The Magic Ring." It has a quaint, Schubertian melody, and its companion, if possible, even a quainter one. Superb records—the John McCormack we all know so well and love to hear.

[Mazurka in F Sharp Minor Ignace Jan Paderewski] 1027 1.50
[Mazurka in A Flat (Chopin) Ignace Jan Paderewski]

The peculiar wizardry of genius doubly gleams in these numbers—two of the most melodious of Chopin's mazurkas, played by a hand that never errs, controlled by a mind that never ceases to feel; and recorded by the Victor method that is perfection itself.

[Lolita (Serenade) (A. Buzzi-Pecchi) In Italian Titta Ruffo] 1019 1.50
[Perjura! (Ficelle Maiken) (Miguel Lenda de Tejada) Titta Ruffo]

Love songs of the rarest beauty; subtle and entrancing rhythm and glorious melody. Both songs magnificently sung by this great baritone—and just as beautifully recorded.

Vocal Records

[Three Fishers Went Sailing (Kingsley-Hallah) Kathryn Meisle] 45423 1.00
[Afterwards (Lemo-Mullen) Kathryn Meisle]

Charles Kingsley's famous sea-song sung with its declaration that "men must work and women must weep," and a tuneful companion. Sung in splendid, deep, tragic contralto, with true understanding, and a fine record is the result.

[Old Plantation Melody Wendell Hall] 19392 .75
[Pickaninny Lullaby Wendell Hall]

Waltz songs of Wendell Hall's own composing, sung to different accompaniment combinations of ukulele, violin, piano and a guitar in which Carson Robison is especially featured. Typical Wendell Hall numbers and typical Victor recording.

Pipe Organ Record

[Nearer My God to Thee (Adams-Mason) Mark Andrews] 19395 .75
[Abide With Me (Lyte-Mark) Mark Andrews]

A pipe organ record which reproduces perfectly the many tone colors of this noblest of instruments. The records, of universally beloved hymn tunes, made in an actual church, are rich and expressive beyond anything in recording experience.

Dance Records

[By the Waters of Minnetonka—Fox Trot Paul Whiteman and His Orchestra] 19391 .75
[Meditation from Thais—Fox Trot Paul Whiteman and His Orchestra]

Clever and brilliant fox-trots based on Thurlow Luce's "By the Waters of Minnetonka" and the Meditation from Massenet's "Thais." More Whiteman innovations—and amazing ones! Such records as only the Victor brings you.

[My Beautiful Brunette—Fox Trot International Novelty Orchestra] 19393 .75
[Love Me—Tango Fox Trot International Novelty Orchestra]

Stately fox trots, one a "tango fox trot" from Latin-American sources. Easily danced to—and superbly played—with long smooth waves of rhythm and fine melodies. Delightfully recorded, too.

[Africa—Fox Trot (from "Tannenberg") Jack Shilkret's Orchestra] 19394 .75
[Virginia—Fox Trot (from "Sweet Lulu Devil") Waring's Pennsylvanians]

Vivid-colored fox trots from stage successes. The second number is more dignified than the first, but not too much so. Both are excellent dance records.

COUNCIL AGAIN SEEKS BIDS FOR PAVING STREET

Defeat Proposal to Have Board of Public Works Pave
Leminwah-st

Following a clash between the common council and the board of public works, the council Wednesday evening voted to advertise for the third time for contractors' proposals on the Leminwah-st paving project.

The board a few days ago had accepted the bid of Koepke Brothers, with the county highway committee concurring, but the board's recommendation Wednesday evening to have the work done under the city engineer and the board of public works instead of by contract was rejected. All bids thereupon were rejected and the clerk was instructed to readvertise for bids.

At the time bids were first advertised for, only one bid, that of Simpson & Parker, was received. It was accepted by the board of public works, but this action was found illegal because the board had not submitted the plans and specifications for the paving project to the county highway committee and the state highway commission for ratification. This action was necessary because the street to be paved is a link of state highway 15 and a project for which the city is receiving county aid. Action therefore was rescinded, the bid rejected and, following endorsement of the plans by the state highway commission, new bids were advertised for.

GET THREE BIDS
Three bids were received after the second advertising but two of them were found to be legally defective. The remaining bid was accepted with the concurrence of the county highway commission, but the board shortly thereafter rejected the bid and sought a carte blanche from the council to pave the street under its own direction.

The bid of Koepke Brothers was $2.71 per square yard, which would have made the cost of the project about $14,000. The bid was lower than that received after the first advertising, but the board after comparing it with the quotations of the two defective bids decided the price was excessive.

A proposal that the work be done under the direction of the board of public works did not meet with the approval of some of the aldermen when it was presented at the council meeting.

SAID PRICE IS FAIR
R. F. Stein, engineer for Koepke Brothers, appeared before the council protesting against the action of the board in making illegal bids a standard of comparison. He also objected to the statement that his company's bid was excessive and maintained that it is lower than the price at which pavements are being laid in other cities. He said he was willing to submit their bid to the scrutiny of any competent engineer engaged in the contracting business with a view to ascertaining whether the price is a fair one.

"We have the bid of Koepke Brothers," said Alderman H. R. Beske, "and know that the contractors will abide by it. But what assurance have we that the work can be done any cheaper under the direction of the board of public works?"

The question was not answered immediately and after discussion drifted along other channels. Alderman Beske reminded Mayor John Goodland, Jr., who is chairman of the board of public works, that his question had not been answered.

"I don't think that the board would recommend it if it were not sure that the work could be done cheaper," was the mayor's reply.

URGE FAIR TREATMENT
"Your honor," objected Alderman Steinhauer, "I don't think that is the right way of doing business. If a man is the only bidder, he should have the contract, especially after the bid was once considered a fair one. It isn't fair to the contractors to treat them like this. Treatment of this kind is one reason why we don't get more bids."

DELEGATES REPORT TO KIWANIS CLUB

Dr. M. H. Small and W. T. Hughes, who represent Appleton Kiwanis club at the state Kiwanian convention in La Crosse, reported on the convention at the club luncheon Tuesday noon at the Conway hotel. They summed up the convention objectives and achievements, giving the recommendations of the central organization for possible changes in activities. A review of the work this year by the district, which is composed of 39 clubs, with a membership total of 3,000, was part of the talk and dealt with activities in underprivileged children work, rehabilitation, education, and other services. A special plea was made for cooperation with other service clubs for a real effort to get out the vote on election day. They urged every Kiwanian toward a greater understanding of the principles of American life and government.

The delegates appreciated the extremely good time Kiwanians of La Crosse gave them, and told about the excursions and drives in and about the convention city.

Alderman S. F. Smith also asking for a square deal for the contractors, reminding the council that there will be a big paving program next year for which the city will solicit bids.

When the question of endorsing the board's actions was put to a vote, it

RAILWAY CONSOLIDATIONS
In the days when great railroad builders flourished in this country, in the days of Vanderbilts and Goulds, and closely following them, Hill and Harriman, there were dreams of railway systems extending from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from the Great Lakes to the Gulf. It is probable that had not Harriman died near the zenith of his power and had Gould not impaired his capital by extending the Wabash into Pittsburg, these men would have realized their ambitions. About this time we entered upon a national policy opposed to railway consolidation. A number of important suits were instituted by the government to prevent the absorption of one system by another, and they succeeded.

The costly experience of government ownership during the war, and the wastefulness and duplication disclosed in railway operation as it existed at the time the government undertook to run the roads, brought forward anew the idea that the best solution of our transportation problems lies in the unification of systems and the merger of small roads into large systems. For one thing, it would mean the strengthening of the weaker roads and the shipment of goods by the shortest line. It would mean a great reduction in overhead costs and an improvement in service.

The attention of the country has recently been directed to the consolidation of several roads by the Van Sweringen of Cleveland into what is called the Greater Nickel Plate. This includes, among others, the Erie and the Pere Marquette systems, which have had troublous careers and many receiverships. In the consolidation they take on an entirely new aspect, representing an effective transportation whole extending from Chicago, the head of the lakes, and St. Louis to New York. The combined investment is more than a billion and a half dollars.

In the south and west the Missouri-Pacific system is acquiring lines in Texas which will give this company two roads to the Mexican border, besides the route to the Pacific coast. This enlarged system will include nearly 15,000 miles of track. Powerful railroad groups are being formed quietly. If the process is approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission, it will not be long until there will be a few groups in the territory extending from the Atlantic to Chicago and St. Louis, a few south of the Ohio river, a few in the northwest, west and southwest.

Such consolidations should, we think, be viewed with favor by the public. The advantages are obvious, and represent great and important economies both to railroad owners and to shippers. The Interstate Commerce commission has jurisdiction over rates and service. The state utility commissions also exercise large powers. While railroad properties are privately owned, they are under strict government regulation. With the changes that are coming into transportation by reason of the automobile, trucks and air planes, the problem of successfully maintaining adequate and profitable railroad transportation becomes increasingly difficult. Either one of two things must take place, the railroads must be permitted to strengthen themselves through uniting their resources and reducing their overhead and operating costs, or we will turn to government ownership. If government ownership is ever to take place in this country, the time for it is not yet ripe. We believe every fact relating to our politics and government as they are today, and as they are morally certain to be for many years to come, is a certificate of guarantee that state ownership would be a colossal mistake.

ment ownership. If government ownership is ever to take place in this country, the time for it is not yet ripe. We believe every fact relating to our politics and government as they are today, and as they are morally certain to be for many years to come, is a certificate of guarantee that state ownership would be a colossal mistake.

DAWES ACCEPTS
One of the best of all the acceptance speeches is that by General Dawes. Back of what he said in support of competent, constitutional government is a record of performance that gives it force. General Dawes is neither a dreamer nor a fanatic. He is essentially a doer, and a user of practical methods. His inauguration of the budget system at Washington is worth a volume of the usual office-seeking promises of economy. His services with the expeditionary forces in Europe proved him to be an able executive and administrator. Finally, he has to his credit a distinguished service in Europe in connection with reparations. The composing of this grave international dispute is an achievement that ranks with the best statesmanship America has produced.

It is natural that a man of this record should be listened to with respect. It is natural that the country should carefully weigh his capacity for service and his honesty of purpose. There is a possibility that either he or Governor Bryan may become president. This contingency ought to be taken seriously by the voter. Irrespective of whether he prefers Davis or Coolidge, there is still the question whether the distinguished financier, diplomatist and man of wide experience is preferable to the theorist who sits in the gubernatorial chair of Nebraska and rants about National Defense Day and a billion dollar export grain corporation with all the assurance of a Pullman smoking-room entertainer.

General Dawes divides his address into two parts, one dealing with the fundamental purpose of government as embodied in our constitution, and which the La Follette party is assailing. His observations on this subject ought to impress millions of men and women in this country who have rights and possessions under the constitution which they believe worth preserving. The weakest portion of the Dawes speech is his reference to the League of Nations. It is half apologetic, and reveals the constantly weakening position of the Republican party on this issue. The avidity and sincerity with which he indorses the world court reflects, we suggest, his true attitude about an international arrangement for the enforcing of peace.

THE FALL OUTLOOK
Business continues to improve from day to day. Factories are increasing production and employing more men. Railroads are ordering equipment and supplies. Construction is improving. Automobile manufacturers, after making more than four million cars last year and more than two million in the first half of the present year, are preparing for a vigorous demand during the autumn. Textile mills are reopening. Retailers signify their intention to enlarge their stocks, and wholesalers are ordering goods.

The farmer is better off than he has been in a long time. He will receive satisfactory returns on his crops. His prices rise while others fall. The disparity between what he paid for goods and what he gets for his products will shrink. Business should be brisk during this fall. All signs are encouraging.

PIGGIES
IT'S fairytale stories that little folks like when it's time for the sandman to come. And they like to tell 'em to most any one, till the little one's senses are numb.
A child falls asleep to the tale of a bear, or a story of Little Boy Blue. 'Twill list to the story that hasn't a scare, though it may be an old one or new.
A grownup will sit by the side of the bed while the day's tale is sung in a light. And goodness but know what other things may be said, as a story unfolds at night.
It's likely that most every mother and dad have talked little people to sleep. The simplest of tales will make any child glad, and 'twill listen with nary a peep.
Of stories that come when the sandman is near, it's likely that everyone knows that the one that the smallest of kids likes to hear, is the one about the little toes.

SOFT SPOTS
Every regular baby has a soft spot or two in his head, which fact is a source of considerable worry to the amateur parents. You see, babies, like adults, are delivered the instant they're ready, and unlike adults, they're soft in spots at first and it takes a little time for the soft spots to harden. The soft spot at the back of the head ordinarily becomes closed over with bone by the time the baby is 2 months old. The soft spot on top of the head is much larger and is usually not completely closed in with bone until the baby is 16 or 18 months old, or perhaps not until he is nearly 2 years old.

When the soft spots remain longer than that there is generally something radically wrong with the nutrition, not the brains, of the baby. It is the brains of the parents or doctor or nurse, rather than the baby's brains, that we should be concerned about when the soft spot remains too long, for they ought to know better than to try to raise a baby on inadequate food. Anyhow parents should not feel anxious about a soft spot until after the end of the second year.

In some cases of that particular disorder of nutrition called rickets, the soft spot (fontanel, as doctors call it) on the top of the head remains soft well into the third year. In certain cases of cretinism (congenital absence or deficiency of the thyroid gland) the soft spot remains for a rapidly growing head. A very large fontanel hydrocephalus or "water on the brain." This is also a congenital condition in most cases, though it sometimes follows as an after effect of meningitis. Congenital hydrocephalus is now attributable to some obstruction of the aqueduct of Sylvius. The interesting part of that for our present discussion is that we all have more or less "water on the brain" which is the normal cerebrospinal fluid secreted or formed in ventricles of the brain; this fluid normally passes out of the brain through the aqueduct of Sylvius to reach the normal fluid space about the brain and in the spinal canal.

The average circumference of the head of choice grade A babies at birth is 13.71 inches. At the age of 1 year it is 18 inches. At the age of 2 years it is 19 inches. Then the head grows more slowly and at 5 years the circumference is about 20 inches. After that the increase is rather less, 1.10 an inch a year up to the age of 12 or 13 years. After that there is no more growth of the head. Babies who have too much on the back often show a flattening of the back of the head in the first year. This is easily prevented by changing the position of the baby every day. Sometimes the head shows a noticeable obliquity or one sided deformity from a habitual position during sleep or nursing, or this obliquity may be congenital. In either case it usually disappears by the time the baby is 3 years old, especially if the habitual position is changed.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
Ouch!

I would like your opinion as to the treatment of carbuncles or boils. I have been having them lanced. Do you approve of this? (S. O.)
Answer.—Yes, heartily, when some other fellow has the boil. When I have one I find I am fond of expectant treatment. A carbuncle is a serious condition which is best subjected to prompt incision and drainage, as a rule. A boil is comparatively trifling (that is, when it is on another fellow) and the question whether it is better to incise it depends on a good deal on the nature of the boil and the temperament and size of the patient. There is just one thing—it is certainly mean to poultice a boil, for one boil is bad enough for even the worst of us. How not to handle boils is the subject of an absorbing and not very irritating monograph which I should be glad to send you on receipt of your request, no clipping, and a stamped envelope bearing your address.

—M. F. S.

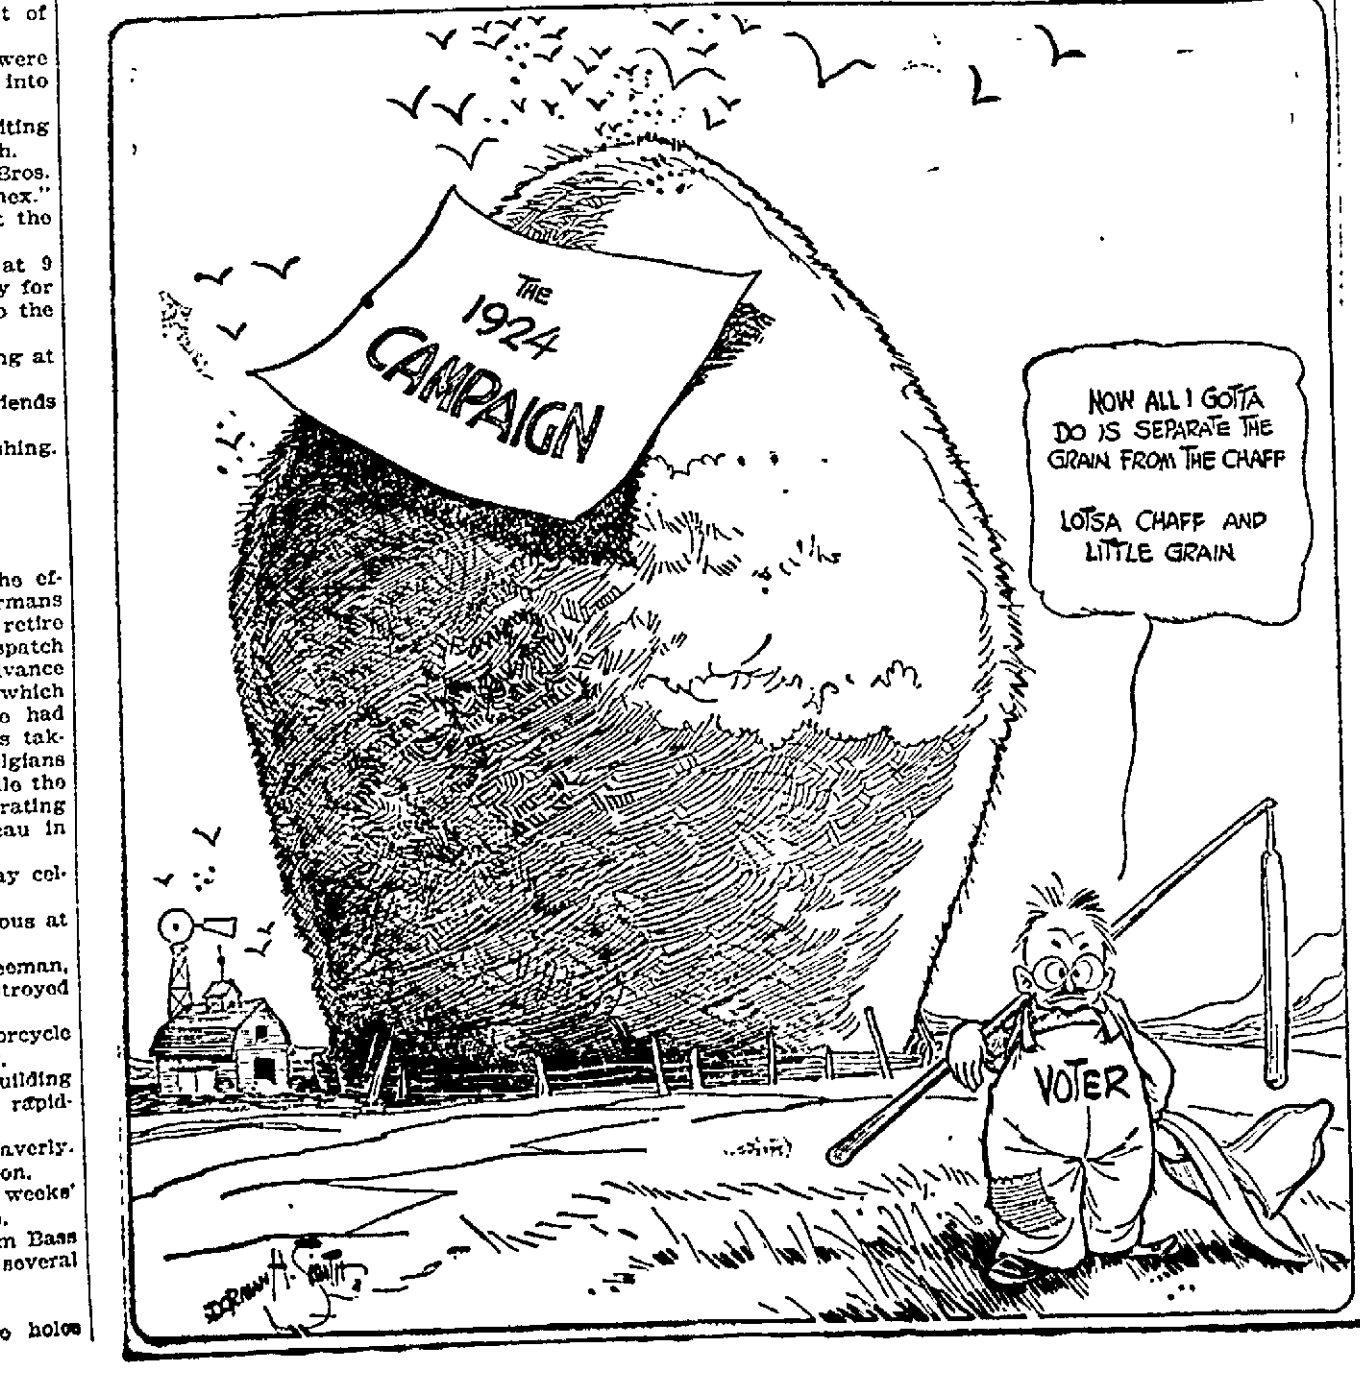

The President will spend the rest of the summer at his old New England home. He evidently knows it won't be any hotter there than at the average "delightfully cool, sleep-under-the-blanket" summer resort with the advertising booklet of that resort used as a fan or a fly swatter.

Those who would keep cool with Coolidge should find plenty of opportunity at the northern Wisconsin summer resorts. Lots of material there for any kind of blanket policy for all the various problems bothering the administration.

If the weather could be controlled by popular vote, grumbles J. P., there would be a wash day bloc, a picnic bloc, a tourist bloc, a pageant bloc, a visiting bloc and a haymakers bloc, and as a result there would be no bathing at Waverly beach nor any corn in the county.

COMES NOW THE THRESHING

White House Garden Fetes Come Yearly

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN
Washington, D. C.—White house parties are becoming as much of a national institution as White house receptions. In recent administrations, presidents' wives have adopted the custom of holding three or four large garden parties during the month of May. These are more informal than the state receptions of the winter season, which are given for the diplomats, the army and navy set, the judiciary and congress. No sets of officials are especially received at the outdoor affairs, but the guest lists are about as formidable in size as those for the winter functions.

To include all the necessary high government officials and foreign representatives and their ladies, and the capital's debutantes and other society folk, it is necessary to make up a different guest list of some 2,000 names for each affair. The garden parties have thus taken on an air of being official entertainers, even though they are given by the president's wife, and are not conducted with state formality. They may yet become established as a tradition, as are the four state receptions and the state dinners given each season of the cabinet and the diplomats, the supreme court, and the speaker of the house.

White house receptions have been an institution for years, while the capital's population grew slowly, the public was admitted to the levees generally held on inauguration day, Fourth of July, and New Years day. At times, as at one of the Johnson receptions, the crowd that came to greet the president was so great that women fainted and had to be carried out through the windows. The shoulder straps of a woman's evening gown were torn completely off in one of these so-called White house crushes, and she had to explain to the president that she could not shake hands because her dress must be held in place.

GUESTS INCREASED
As the city's population increased it became necessary to limit the persons received to a reasonable number of invited guests. Mr. McKinley was considered a brave and unconventional executive to insist upon this policy. Use of the White house gardens for extensive social entertainment might be called a twentieth century development. By Mrs. Roosevelt's time the grounds were recognized as a perfect background for garden parties. The lawns and hedges were in good condition. The fountain was surrounded by flowers. When the marine band in full dress was playing and gaily colored refreshment tents were dotted over the lawn, the festive atmosphere was complete.

Mrs. Taft said that she took a special interest in this form of hospitality. Some time ago she described her experiences with the spring garden parties and particularly with the lawn was attractively arranged for her first May party, she says, when "about half past three it began to rain in torrents and I saw all of my festive-looking preparations reduced to sopping wrecks before there was even time to rush them indoors. By 5 o'clock it had stopped raining, but the lawns were soaked and the trees were dripping miserably." There was nothing for the hostess to do but receive her guests in the east room and make the parlors as springlike as possible with flowers.

WEATHER HANDICAP
This spring, Mrs. Coolidge was handicapped with a month of weather entirely unsuitable for outdoor entertaining. Rainfall, which was almost continuous, stopped for the first garden party, and Mrs. Coolidge and the

Globe Flight No Pace Setter

(From Popular Mechanics.)
Although the round-the-world airplane flight already has established new flying records, it will not break the existing speed mark for circling the globe.

Before the participants were half way on their journey they had taken more than twice as much time as was required by John Henry Mears of The New York Sun, who traveled by land and sea, made the trip in 1913 in 35 days, 21 hours, 55 and four-fourths seconds, lettering the performance of the mythical hero of Jules Verne's story by more than 44 days. He covered an average of 578 miles a day.

Notable among other journeys are those of Capt. W. D. Seymour, who, in 1876, made the trip in 117 days; Nellie Ely's record of 72 days, 6 hours, 11 minutes and 14 seconds in 1899, lowered by about five days by George Francis Train the following year. His mark was bettered by nearly a week in 1901 by Charles Fitzmorris, Chicago. This record was then lowered by Henry Fredrick, col. Burnley Campbell and by Andre Jaeger-Schmidt, a Paris journalist, who held the record until Mears made his notable trip.

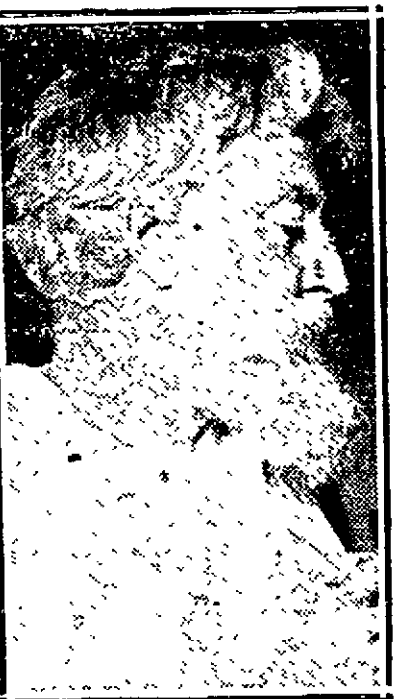

President decided to receive on the damp lawn since holding the garden parties indoors is always a disappointment to the guests.

But the day was damp and threatening, and Mr. Coolidge, bareheaded, caught cold from standing on a rug on the grass, while he shook hands with 2,000 people. The next two parties fell on days so rainy or damp underfoot that indoor entertainment was unavoidable.

A garden party in the state apartments has its points of interest, which distinguish it from the winter receptions. From the receiving line in the east room, the guests wander as they like, through the parlors and corridors and the state dining room, where refreshments are served.

HE ANALYZES LAVAS

Dr. Henry S. Washington of the Carnegie Institution of Washington, is making a series of chemical analyses of the lavas of the volcanoes of the Hawaiian Islands. This work is in connection with studying the composition of the floor of the Pacific Ocean and the constitution of the earth.

The Question Box

(Any reader can get the answer to any question by writing The Appleton Post-Crescent Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C. This offer applies strictly to information. The Bureau cannot advise on legal, medical, and financial matters. It does not attempt to settle domestic troubles, nor to undertake exhaustive research on any subject. Write your question plainly and briefly. Give full name and address and enclose two cents in stamps for return postage. All replies are sent direct to the inquirer.)

Q. Did the Marquis of Queensberry ever fight under the rules which bear his name? T. B.

A. The Marquis of Queensberry took a great interest in boxing and in 1865 decided that the rules of the London Prize ring were rather brutal. With the assistance of Arthur Chambers he framed the rules and these two men fought for the lightweight championship in 1872. The Queensberry rules governing the contest.

Q. Did Horace Greely ever argue for a minimum wage law? D. H.

A. It can not be said that Greely advocated a minimum wage law, but in 1890 he published a plea that day labor be paid at least $1.12 1/2 per day, stating that on basis of 250 working days a year this would amount to $281.25 and adding, "This may seem a large amount to many but in fact it is not too much."
Q. Do we spend more for luxuries in this country than for necessities? D. W. S.

A. Authoritative computations are not available, but it has been estimated that 24 1/2 per cent of the national income goes for living costs, or necessities, while 22 per cent is expended for luxuries.

Q. What is the English Order of Merit? L. O. M.

A. The Order of Merit was founded to commemorate King Edward's coronation in 1902 as a special distinction for meritorious men in war, science, literature or art. Its membership is limited to 24 British subjects and as many foreigners as the Sovereign shall appoint.

Q. Do more women commit suicide than men? M. W. C.

A. Of 12,913 reported suicides last year 4,316 were women. It is estimated that there were from 2,000 to 3,000 unreported suicides, but there are no estimates as to the proportion of women to men.

Of all the earthquakes on record, the most disastrous occurred in 1858, in China, when 530,000 people were killed.

Mrs. Hassman Is Chaplain Of Auxiliary

Appleton Woman Honored at District Meeting in Oshkosh

Mrs. Emma Hassman, Appleton, was elected district chaplain at the convention of the Auxiliaries of Spanish War Veterans in Oshkosh Wednesday. Appleton auxiliary was represented by Mrs. Mildred Zerbel, Mrs. Rose Bellin, Mrs. Anna Schultz, Mrs. Anna Hoffman and Mrs. Emma Hassman of Appleton, and Mrs. Demerath of Kimberly. It is estimated that 160 women from the auxiliaries at Fond du Lac, Ripon, Green Bay, Oshkosh, Sheboygan and Appleton attended the conference.

The purpose of the convention was to organize a district body to secure the advantage of united effort. Ritualistic work occupied part of the afternoon and was supplemented by a short program. It was decided to hold the convention in Fond du Lac next year.

500 Attended C.O.F. Picnic At Lake Beach

Five hundred Foresters, their families and friends from the Appleton and surrounding courts attended the picnic given by the Catholic Order of Foresters Wednesday afternoon and evening at Waverly beach. Games and races for the ladies and children, and a great deal of action on the part of the Foresters occupied the afternoon, and many prizes were given away. The picnickers danced in the pavilion after supper.

CLUB MEETINGS

The archery club of Appleton Women's club was unable to hold a meet Wednesday afternoon because of the bad condition of the grounds in Jones park. It has not been decided when the next meeting will be held.

Franklin Social club will not have a meeting Thursday evening. The dancing party by the organization will be held on the second Friday in September, and not on Thursday, Aug. 28, as previously announced.

Mission Club Enjoys Party And Program

Fifty or sixty persons attended the annual picnic of the Women's Missionary society of Emmanuel Evangelical church, Wednesday afternoon and evening at the home of Mrs. Fred Wickesberg, R. 2. Members gathered about 2:30, when a short program was presented which dealt with missionary work among the mountaineers and other groups of Americans who are receiving missionary help. A talk on "Stewardship" was part of the program, which was arranged by the August group of the society. Supper was served and a social hour followed.

Dozen Girls Expected At Basket Class

It is expected that twelve or more girls will be present at the basketry class at Appleton Women's club at 7 o'clock Friday evening. The first of a series of classes was held Monday. This class will meet Monday and Friday evenings for three weeks. Any one interested in basketry is welcome to attend. The material can be obtained through the club. Lamps, trays and baskets of various shades, shapes and weaves are made. A class at 3 o'clock on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons is open to girls and young women, while the evening class is particularly for young women who are unable to attend in the afternoon.

PARTIES

Miss Hilda Rohloff, 1051 Superior-st., entertained 28 girls at a dress up party Tuesday evening. Prizes for the best costumes went to Mrs. Harry Tretton, Mrs. Val Beyer, Miss Myrtle Hoerning, Mrs. F. H. Jebo, Miss Lauretta Braeuer and Miss Dorothy Nehls. Features of the evening which was spent in dancing, were a balloon dance, a confetti dance and a prize waltz which was won by Mrs. Harry Tretton. Horns and whistles added to the hilarity of the guests, the only one from out-of-town being Miss Irene Salcherk, Antigo.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Glasnap entertained sixty friends and relatives at a supper at their home Sunday. Games and dancing furnished entertainment. Out-of-town relatives present were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gerlach, Mr. Frank Morley, Mr. and Mrs. John Senkup and daughter Genevieve of Milwaukee and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Merkel and family of Apple Creek.

Kick Induces Ancient Smith To Quit Trade

Chippewa Falls.—The horseshoeing days of Sam Greenlee, 79, probably Wisconsin's oldest blacksmith, are over.

During the 40-odd years that Sam has been picking up horses' feet by the fetlocks and putting on the steel shoes, he has been kicked many times. In fact, he says, he lost track of the number. These little mishaps never bothered him much. He would just dust himself off a bit and go back to work—even if he was a little hurt sometimes.

But the other day Sam was picked up by the foot of a restless horse and thrown into a pile of scrap iron several feet distant.

He didn't go back to work. The accident would have been trivial in younger days but a "man does get old and his bones change" and so Sam went to the hospital. He isn't getting along so well and he admitted that he never expected to use the hammer with which he has tapped on thousands of shoes again.

He's going to try to find work though, when he gets out of the hospital ward. He wants to do "something that's light and fitting for an old man."

Before he got kicked this last time Sam never would admit that he was getting old.

C.E. Will Hold Booster Picnic At River Bank

Christian Endeavorers of the First Congregational church will hold a booster picnic for the Green Bay district convention here, at 6 o'clock Friday evening on the river bank in the former West park, now owned by Fremont Johnston. Basket supper will not be served but there will be a steak fry instead. Informal talks will follow concerning plans for the district gathering at Memorial Presbyterian church Aug. 29, 30 and 31.

LODGE NEWS

Deborah Rebekahs had a meeting Wednesday evening in Odd Fellow hall. General business was transacted.

Because the speakers who had been scheduled to give talks at the meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary of Eagles remained away on account of the Seymour fair, the ladies enjoyed a social hour Wednesday afternoon. Prizes were won by Mrs. John Dick, Mrs. Frank Hintz, and Mrs. Frank Schreier at schafkopf, and Mrs. Tom Welsh, dice. A short business meeting preceded the card games.

HEARING GRANTED ON PHONE INCREASE

Appleton will be granted a public hearing by the railroad commission of Wisconsin on the request of the Wisconsin Telephone company for an increase in rates, according to word received here. No date has been set but it will be sometime after Sept. 10. The company is asking higher rates for business and residence telephones in order to earn an adequate return on its Appleton investment.

AFRAID SHE COULD NOT LIVE

Operation Advised, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made It Unnecessary

Glasgow, Kentucky.—"I was run-down, nervous, with no appetite. My side had given me trouble for five or six years. At times it was all I could do to live, and the doctor said I couldn't live but a short time longer without an operation. That was two years ago. My sister-in-law recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She had used it herself, but she said one of her neighbors suffered just like I did, and it cured her. After I had taken four bottles the pain left my side. I had a fine appetite to eat anything that was put before me, and I began to do all my work and my washing, something I hadn't done for years. I am a dress-maker, and this last fall I began suffering with my side again, so I began taking the Vegetable Compound again. I am on my fourth bottle, which makes eight in all I have taken. I feel so much better when I take it and everybody tells me I look better. My appetite improves and I feel stronger in every way. I am a very nervous woman and it seems to help my nerves so much."—Mrs. MAGGIE WALLER, Glasgow, Kentucky.

PARKING SPACE FOR CARS ON TOP OF NEW GARAGE

New Municipal Building Will Be Completed in About Two Months

Kaukauna—Parking space for automobiles on the roof of the new municipal building is being erected on the site of the old police station opposite the new municipal building.

The structure is 60 by 70 feet in size and is being built of concrete blocks and brick and the walls are up nearly ten feet. The city is doing the construction work, but has engaged John Copes, former mayor, to supervise it.

Concrete floors will be laid and the building will house all the city's motor trucks and automobiles. The roof also will be constructed of concrete and will be for the use of the public. It will be reached from Lawes bridge with which the top of the building will be even. It will be amply protected with railings.

The garage is located nearly in the center of a group of handsome municipal buildings which include the new high school. It harmonizes with the other buildings and will be completed within 60 days.

SPECIAL ELECTION ON BOND ISSUE TO BE HELD SEPT. 16

$100,000 Bond Issue Sure to Pass Council at Its Next Meeting

Kaukauna—Resolutions authorizing a municipal bond issue of $100,000 for the construction of the proposed new Lawes bridge have been prepared and probably will be passed at the next meeting of the common council Tuesday, Sept. 2. It is said there is very little if any opposition to the bond issue and the council will vote upon the issue with a special election to be held Tuesday, Sept. 16. By holding the special election early it is planned that the new draw bridge over the government canal can be placed in position during the winter when it will not interfere with navigation. The present Lawes bridge has been in use for nearly 40 years.

Quick Relief for Rheumatics

Local Druggists Sell Rheuma on Money-Back Plan

If you suffer from torturing rheumatic pains, swollen, twisted joints, and suffer intensely because your system is full of uric acid, that dangerous poison that makes thousands helpless and kills thousands years before their time, then you need Rheuma, and need it now.

Start taking it today. Rheuma acts at once on kidneys, liver, stomach and blood, and you can sincerely exclaim: "Good riddance to bad rheuma."

Many people, the most skeptical of skeptics right in this city and in the country hereabouts, bless the day when Schinaz Bros. Co. and other good druggists offered Rheuma to the afflicted at a small price and guaranteed money refunded if not satisfied. If you have rheumatism get a bottle of Rheuma today.

WILSON AND ROOSEVELT PICKED AS SCHOOL NAMES

ALDERMEN AGREE ON NAMES FOR NEW CITY BUILDINGS

Bridge Builders Protest Penalty of $25 a Day for Delay in Contract

Wilson Junior High School.
Roosevelt Junior High School.
Those are the names by which the two junior high schools now under construction will be known in the future. The west end school will take the name of Wilson school and the east end school will be known as Roosevelt school.

Christening of the two institutions was accomplished by the common council Wednesday evening with but little opposition. Naming them after the two most prominent presidents of this century is in line with a precedent established in the naming of schools in many cities.

A long list of names had been sent to the meeting by Alderman George T. Rickard, who was absent. The list suggested names of American poets and Wisconsin explorers, but omitted the names of any presidents.

Alderman Pose moved the combination of Woodrow Wilson and Theodore Roosevelt, and Alderman Besko seconded the motion. Objection to the use of the given names induced the aldermen to retain only the surnames.

Names designating the schools by their location, such as West Junior High school and East Junior High school, were suggested by Alderman Thompson, but the aldermen added that he would not object seriously to the use of the presidential names, as long as that of Wilson was restricted to the west end.

TRY A LITTLE HUMOR

Alderman McGilgan, ridiculing the alleged extreme location of the buildings, suggested the use of Seymour school for the one in the northeast end of the city. Mayor Goodland said that the names of Rural Route 5 and Rural Route 7 had been suggested. The names "Wilson" and "Roosevelt" had been endorsed by the board of education, the Lions club and a large number of individuals. Selection of the names were left to the board of public works, but that body referred the matter to the council.

WANTS STREET RENAMED

Adoption of the name "Wilson" for the west end school led Alderman Pose to revive the movement to name State-st. "Wilson-ave." The name adopted by city ordinance last spring is Badger-ave. Mr. Pose said he still could not approve the choice and reiterated the wishes of a large number of this constituents for the use of the name Wilson-ave.

The name State-st. was not desired because of the confusion with State-st. The council formerly were divided on Wilson-ave, National-ave and Wisconsin-ave. Some considered Wisconsin-ave a good substitute for State-st., but that name was given to Second-ave, and Badger-ave was attached to State-st. Alderman Pose was reminded that a petition protesting against the use of Wilson-ave prevented the adoption of that name, but the fifth ward alderman retorted that he could get a petition containing just as many signatures of persons in favor of the name. Alderman Smith of the Third ward supported Pose in his attempt to have the street renamed but no action on the matter was taken Wednesday.

MAKE TRAFFIC SURVEY

The ordinance committee recommended passage of the traffic ordinance presented at a previous meeting, but action was postponed until the next meeting inasmuch as a survey of parking conditions is being made on College-ave which may have a bearing on the advisability of some sections of the ordinance. It is possible that a public hearing may be called by the committee before the next council meeting.

Permission was given to Jesse Hooper Wilson of the Volunteers of America to designate Aug. 30 as Tag day in behalf of the children whose fathers are in Wisconsin prisons. A proposed ordinance to designate the first from Franklin-st. to Lemin-wah-st. and Lemin-wah-st. from Pacific- to Wisconsin-ave (Second-ave) as arterial highways was presented, referred to the ordinance committee and ordered published.

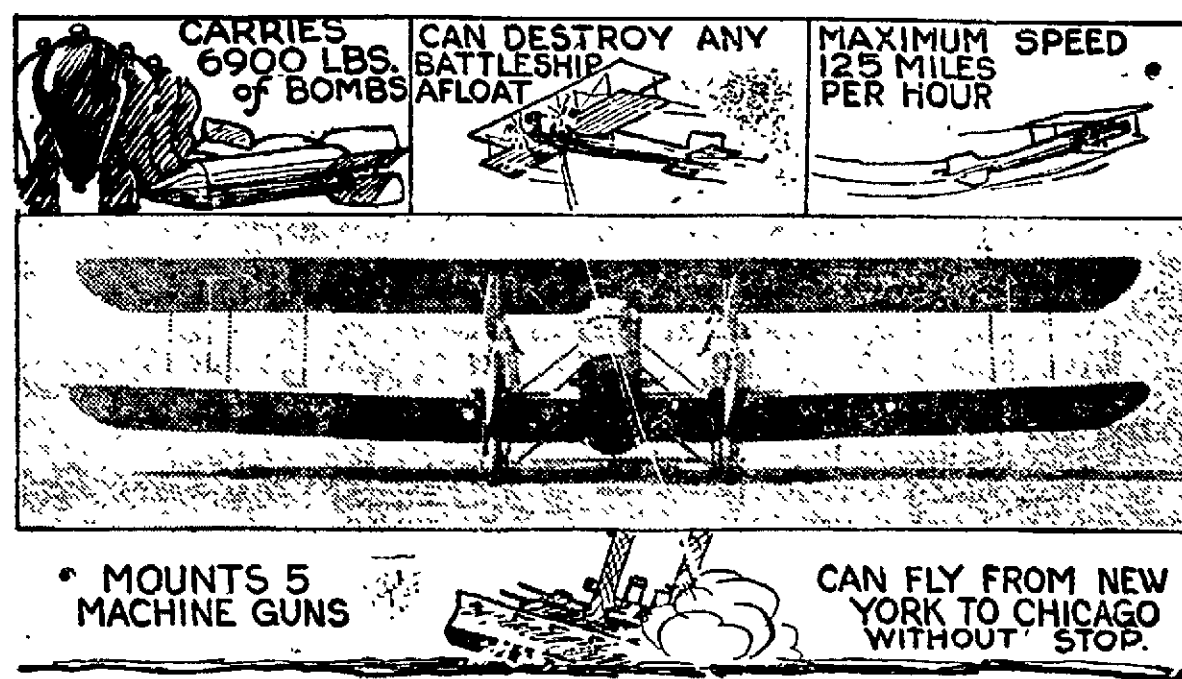

PROTEST PENALTY

The city's check for the monthly estimate on the cost of constructing the Cherry-st bridge was returned by the Wausau Iron works, contractors, on the ground that it was insufficient. It protested against the deduction for the $25 penalty for failure to complete the bridge by contract time, July 1. The contractors maintained that the delay was caused through no fault of theirs, but to a delay of the city in turning over the complete plans. This caused a delay in submitting the contract for the steel fabrication, it was said. The letter of the Wausau Iron works was ordered placed on file without any other action.

The building inspector and fire chief were instructed to investigate the condition of all frame structures in the fire limits with a possible view to ordering their removal as a matter of fire protection.

By a vote of the council the monthly report of the city treasurer will be published regularly in the official newspaper.

Uncle Sam Tests New Engine Of Death

Dayton, O.—A new engine of death powerful enough to destroy any battleship afloat, is being given ground tests under Uncle Sam's provision at McCook Field.

It is the Elias Bomber, and will soon take to the air under supervision of Lieut. John A. MacReady, for a prolonged series of tests.

A two-motored airplane, it is capable of flight from New York to Chicago without stop; of climbing to altitude faster than any other craft of its size.

Bombs weighing 6900 pounds can be carried in the plane and five machine guns are so mounted as to resist attack from any angle. Special precautions have been taken in the construction of the "death" machine to insure great safety to the pilot, gun director and also to protect the explosives under fire.

In addition to the facilities for bombing and for protection, the machine carries a powerful camera, a radio set, self starter, electric lights, life preservers and shock absorbers.

The wings are 77 feet long, fuselage is 7 feet 10 inches long, and it is 16 feet from bottom of landing wheels to top of upper wing. There are two 300-horse power Liberty engines and the tanks carry 340 gallons of gasoline and 325 pounds of oil.

A maximum speed of from 105 to 125 miles an hour can be made by the machine.

NEW GOLF COURSE WILL BE OPENED FOR PLAY SEPT. 10

Club Completes Project on Brickyard-rd with All Indebtedness Paid

Butte des Morts Golf club will open its new course on Brickyard rd for play for the first time on Wednesday, Sept. 10, for the use of members, their families and guests, according to a decision reached at a joint meeting Wednesday of the boards of directors of Winnebago Land Co. and the golf club.

This action was taken after a conference with W. C. Jackson, golf engineer and business manager of the club. The greens have been growing rapidly and the course will be in shape by that time so it will endure reasonable use without injury.

Opening of the club takes place under exceedingly favorable financial circumstances. The members have invested $23,000 in the land and construction of the links. The revenue from shares in the land company, from $20,000 in preferred stock shares, all of which has been sold, and dues which were fixed at this meeting, will enable the club to finish the year with all indebtedness paid and leaving future revenue available entirely for maintenance and improvement of the property.

CLINEDINST NAMED
S. H. Clinedinst of Menasha, was appointed chairman of the greens committee. He was named because of his previous experience in this work, which is that of supervising maintenance of the course and regulating the play according to the condition of the land and the demand for its use. He is to cooperate with Mr. Jackson in this activity.

The general public will not be permitted to play on the course for the balance of this year, the board has decided. This rule was made because the grass on the greens is still young and the club does not desire to tax the turf with more playing than it can stand in its present condition. Playing by members also will be suspended during times when there are excessive rains and the ground is soft. Proper notice will be given by placarding the course at such times, however, and by press notices. This policy will prevent damage to the grounds until they are more mature, the board believes.

MAY INVITE GUESTS

Dues were fixed for the remainder of 1924 and each member will be informed as to the amount he is expected to pay. Any member will be privileged to invite guests to play under restriction as to the number of times, according to what the greens committee decides. The greens fee for guests will be two dollars for each game. Wives of members play free of extra charge for this year and dependent children of members will be charged a green fee of 50 cents for each round. Rules will be fixed so that children will play at times when the course is not heavily in use.

Most of the $20,000 issue of preferred stock is paid in, according to reports which have been submitted. All has been subscribed. There are 335 members enrolled. All were on the charter roll at $10 a share in Winnebago Land Co. except two who came later, after the fee had been raised to $200. Eight more will be admitted this season at $200, and the board then will decide the future expansion policy. The membership is limited to 400.

NEED CHERRY PICKERS CAMP FOR FAIR GROUNDS

The Y. M. C. A. cherry pickers camp at Sturgeon Bay has broken up, according to Leonard Hendrikson, manager, who returned to Appleton Wednesday evening. This was made necessary because the camps were located on the fair grounds which were needed for fair purposes. Several Appleton pickers have returned home, but the majority will remain until the close of the season next week. Provision has been made for their board and lodging among farmers.

PERMANENT CAMP NEEDED FOR SCOUT WORK'S SUCCESS

Valley Council Appoints Committee to Make Survey—
Plan Fall Work

Purchase of a permanent campsite was considered by the Fox River Valley council, Boy Scouts of America, at a meeting Wednesday evening at the headquarters in Insurance-bldg. The meeting was attended by C. M.

Finnell of Chicago, deputy regional executive.

Land on the east shore of Lake Winnebago is preferred for the camp because it is convenient to Appleton. A committee will be appointed by the council's president, Louis Bonini, to look over available land and make recommendations.

SOLVES LEADER PROBLEM

This committee is wanted primarily to solve the biggest problem in local scout work, that of obtaining a corps of scoutmasters to lead the boys. Men who undertake this work usually have only their evenings to devote to it and the biggest part of scouting and that which develops the most interest, the outdoor scouting, is neglected.

P. O. Kelcher, scout executive, declared that a campsite equipped with perhaps a hut and tent floors will provide a place where the boys can be taken each weekend. The troops can meet indoors with the scoutmaster during the week and the executive can take one group of boys to the camp each weekend so they can obtain their outdoor training.

KEEP OFFICE OPEN

Mr. Kelcher's office in the chamber of commerce assembly room is to be kept open daily after Sept. 1, under plans made by the council. A stenographer will be employed for the afternoons, and Mr. Kelcher will be there mornings.

Monthly meetings on the third Monday of each month are to be resumed by the council. The September meeting will be held on Wednesday, Sept. 24, however, because Mr. Kelcher will be absent from the city on the regular date.

Organization of troops and outlining of activities for those now existing will be pushed in all the participating cities, Appleton, Neenah, Menasha, Kimberly, Little Chute and Kauka-na. Troops will be formed in all the churches first and attention then will be turned to other membership sources.

fore had run away with the wife and mother, come in to the story and the younger generation perpetuates a feud. Chases of fish poachers, hand to hand battles, daring escapes and vivid scenes of life and love that is born in the wild, brisk Northern woods, make an exceptionally fine play for William Duncan and his fair co-star, Edith Johnson.

THRILLS GALORE IN PICTORIZATION OF HAROLD MACGRATH'S NOVEL
The world of today is constantly in search of thrills. Watching your favorite boulevarder arrive and get by with you, consignment of goods is one form of thrill. Whether you indulge in that form of thrill or not, you will find an entirely different sort in "Drums of Jeopardy," the screen play in which Elaine Hammerstein has the leading role, now playing at the Elite theatre. Thrills abound in this adaptation of Harold MacGrath's renowned novel, which will be well remembered as a serial in the Saturday Evening Post, because it created a furore with its thrills when first published.

The photoplay opens with a thrill on board a ferryboat in New York harbor. Two figures stealthily creeping toward the unsuspecting figure at the rail gazing across the water at the city's glittering lights, an attack, a fight for life, the escape, a beautiful girl in a limousine, and the story is off with a bang! Two brilliant, sparkling emeralds for which a dozen pairs of hands are grasping in the dark, from behind every corner, in every darkened doorway. Then a fight in the night in the unlighted library, pistol shots in the dark and with the morning's sun, the murdered man and the missing jewels.

Thrills upon thrills mount the suspense and mystery of this unusual photoplay, culminating in the rescue of the heroine from the den of the secret agents to which she had been lured. Lovers of excitement and thrills will be thoroughly satisfied when their search for thrills leads them to "Drums of Jeopardy" at the Elite theatre.

BIG AUTO DISPLAY AT DEPERE FAIR
By Associated Press
Green Bay—The automobile show of the Northeastern Wisconsin Fair which will be held here from Aug. 25 to 29 will be one of the most extensive of its kind in Wisconsin this year, according to fair officials here. This exhibition comes on the heels of the announced cancellation of plans for an automobile exposition in connection with the state fair.

Plans for the state auto show were withdrawn when a heavy advance in prices for display room was demanded by officials of the fair, it is said. The prices requested represent approximately an advance of $33 to $100 a front foot, according to reports received here.

Because of this turn in events, officials of the Northeastern Wisconsin Fair have doubled the display room for automobiles and say that according to all indications, every make of automobile sold in Wisconsin will be on exhibition.

Elaborate plans are being carried out to make the auto show one of the chief attractions of the exposition in the hope that it will attract persons from all over the state.

WANT TO FINISH CITY MAP BEFORE PUTTING UP SIGNS

Numbering of Buildings Under New System Will Be Started Soon

Work is progressing on the draft of a new Appleton street map in the city engineer's office. Efforts are being made to finish the work before installation of the new street signs and renumbering of buildings.

The small pocket size map has already been completed, and work on the larger wall map is about 25 per cent finished. After this has been drawn, a map containing all the new house numbers for every lot in the city will be prepared.

All houses and business buildings fronting streets will be renumbered on the basis of 100 numbers to the block, with College-ave and Oneida-ave as the dividing lines of the city. For example, the Whedon-Block at College-ave and Oneida-ave, would take the number 100 East College-ave, and the Citizens National bank would be numbered 100 West College-ave. The Fair store, being on the opposite side of the street, and one block east, might take the number 201 East College-ave. Streets running parallel with Oneida-ave would take the designation "North" and "South" with College-ave as the dividing line.

Even and odd house numbers would follow the rule of "Odd numbers on that side of the street on which the sun doesn't shine in the mornings," which means that odd numbers would be attached to buildings on the south and east sides of streets, and even numbers on the north and west sides of the streets.

FIND MANY ERRORS IN PREPARING MAP

Preparations have been started for the issuance of a new county map. A number of errors in land descriptions in the assessment rolls have been discovered by Herman J. Kamps, who is in charge of this phase of the work. Some of these mistakes were made by town officials as early as 1897 and have been copied and repeated from year to year. A 40-acre tract, for instance, is listed under three separate owners. The cuts for the map are being made by the Appleton Engraving company. The cut for each town is being made as fast as the tracing and abstracting work is completed. The maps will be printed in four sections of five townships each and placed together. Frank M. Charlesworth, Jr., county surveyor, is in charge of the engineering details in preparing the map.

DR. PLANTZ IS CHIEF ATTRACTION AT MEETING

Baraboo — Western Wisconsin district Methodists have designated Thursday Sept. 4, as the theme of a program and important day, from a program standpoint of their annual convention here next month. In addition to an address by Dr. Samuel Plantz, president of Lawrence college, Appleton Wis., on the subject "The Church and War," to be delivered in the late afternoon, there will be a lecture by Mrs. F. I. Johnson, Cincinnati, Ohio, a representative of the Women's Foreign Missionary society, and Dr. M. S. Rice, Detroit.

An added attraction of the program is an address by Dr. Dan Brummit, editor of the Northwestern Christian Advocate, Chicago.

Says His Prescription Has Powerful Influence Over Rheumatism

Mr. James H. Allen, of Rochester, N. Y., suffered for years with rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work.

He finally decided, after years of ceaseless study, that one could be free from rheumatism until the accumulated impurities, commonly called uric acid deposits, were dissolved in the joints and muscles and expelled from the body.

With this idea in mind he consulted physicians, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system.

He freely gave his discovery, which he called Allen's, to others who took it, with what might be called marvelous success. After years of urging he decided to let sufferers everywhere know about his discovery through the newspapers. He has therefore instructed druggists everywhere to dispense Allen's with the understanding that if the drug that they do not show the way to complete recovery he will gladly return your money without comment.

Vol's Drug Store can supply you.

Vice President Comes Into His Own At Last

BY CHARLES F. STEWART
Washington—Whichever of the national tickets may win next November, the vice president hereafter is going to be a more important functionary than ever in the past, until the Harding administration.

The theory used to be that the vice presidential nomination amounted to a sentence to political obscurity for life—unless, of course, the chief magistrate happened to die and his understudy stepped into his shoes.

Even then, as a rule, the vice president, as originally elected, simply filled out the unfinished term and vanished into nothingness.

To be sure, that wasn't what happened in Theodore Roosevelt's case, but it certainly was what was intended by the politicians who framed his nomination as President McKinley's running mate, and when finally he got the presidency and hung onto it, it was freely remarked among them that, inadvertently, he had been "kicked upstairs."

Harding, however, announced in advance, if elected, he meant to make Coolidge a kind of cabinet member, ex-officio. He was to attend all cabinet meetings, to be "in on" all policies, to be kept in touch with everything the administration did.

This plan was carried out. Coolidge really was a PART of the administration in a sense that no earlier vice president ever had been. Among government officials it is the consensus of opinion that this helped him greatly when, unexpectedly, he was called to the White House himself, that it had much to do in enabling him to grasp the helm with the promptness and the understanding of the situation which he displayed.

While no formal announcement has been made from any of the party headquarters thus far, it is tacitly understood at all of them that the Harding plan will be adopted during that next term, whether it be Republican, Democratic or Progressive in complexion.

Indeed, it is the belief generally in Washington that future vice presidents always will figure more prominently in their various administrations' affairs than ever in the past, before President Harding's day.

This, so far as the coming administration is concerned, is assumed that, through electoral college and House of Representative deadlocks, one of the vice presidential candidates does not step directly into the presidency on March 4, 1925.

POLITICAL FIGHT DRAWING TO CLOSE

Milwaukee Will Be Battleground for Hirst and Blaine Next Week

MILWAUKEE—With but two more weeks of the race for state and legislative office, remaining political candidates are drawing their campaigns to a climax with determined drives for votes, reports from headquarters of the various candidates here indicate.

The outstanding contest—that for the governorship will be waged until the last hour before the voters go to the polls on Sept. 2. It is stated, Milwaukee will be the center of gubernatorial activities next week with the state fair in progress. Governor Blaine and R. R. Hirst, Republican candidates, will both spend considerable time at the fair drumming up votes. Other candidates, including secretary of State Zimmerman, State Treasurer Levitt and Henry Johnson, are expected to concentrate on Milwaukee during the last week of the campaign.

Mr. Hirst will make one of his final addresses in Madison on August 20 at a rally planned in his behalf. He probably will close his campaign at Waterloo on Labor Day, according to his campaign directors. Governor Blaine's schedule for the final week has not yet been completed. Lieut. Gov. George Comings, the third gubernatorial candidate is likely to make one of his final talks in Eau Claire, his home. However, he probably will spend election day in Madison.

Relocation of state trunk highway at McCarthy's crossing east of Kaukauna to eliminate the sharp "S" curve approach to the Chicago and Northwestern railway tracks and the Green Bay-Kaukauna Interurban line will begin in a few days, according to A. G. Br. Sewitz, county highway commissioner. Crews were to start on relocating the crossing south of the present crossing following the closing of the points in the new pavement, which has been widened between the crossing and the Brown-co line.

An Appreciation of Red Crown The High-Grade Gasoline

THERE'S just one way you can know the vast difference between Red Crown and other gasolines. That is by asking Red Crown to get you out of difficulties. It does it every time.

Here's one man's experience:

"Red Crown had been my engine fuel for many years—long tried, well tested, and entirely satisfactory—

"But, in a foolish moment, YOU KNOW, on the advice of a (so-called high-test) gasoline salesman, I changed my brand, and for several months used other kinds of gasoline with various unsettling results, as: Short mileage, with more frequent filling of my gas tank; hard to start after the lighter elements were used out of my tank; lack of power on a hill, with always in low as I climbed; and, to top my difficulties, one day I ran out of 'gas' on the hill.

"Then I was cured. I had always carried a gallon of Red Crown under the seat, and I put it in the tank and climbed the hill on high gear for the first time in months. Red Crown for me from now on."

Furthermore, Red Crown takes a hint with a haste that will delight you. It has the right attitude toward its job—peppy, active, ready to anticipate your desires, and always dependable.

Forestall trouble. Put Red Crown in your tank now—and laugh at sand, grades and mud!

Papermakers Plan To Hold Second Place By Taking Chairs To Camp

Pregame. Dope. Gives. Pails, Smithmen and Braby Tribe Slight Edge Over Rivals Sunday.

HOW THEY STAND

Nee-Menasha	4	0	0	1,000
APPLETON	2	1	0	.667
Oshkosh	2	2	0	.500
Green Bay	2	2	0	.500
Sheboygan	1	3	1	.250
Fond du Lac	0	3	1	.333

SUNDAY'S SCHEDULE
SHEBOYGAN AT APPLETON
Fond du Lac at Green Bay
Nee-Menasha at Oshkosh.

Nee-Menasha is perched safely on the top of the McGillian ladder with Appleton as its nearest rival, but the Papermakers plan to take advantage of every chance to climb a bit closer, and will have their next opportunity Sunday afternoon when the Chairs invade this city. By lying idle because of wet grounds last Sunday, the Smithmen profited by the 6 to 1 defeat handed to Green Bay by the Oshkosh club and advanced to second place. They have beaten Sheboygan twice this season and plan to make it three straight Sunday.

The Pails are hoped to conquer Oshkosh, now tied for third place with Green Bay, while the Braby tribe looks for an easy win over the tail-end Cardinals. Unless the dope is all wrong, the Pails will continue to lead after Sunday's contests, with Appleton second and Green Bay third. Oshkosh, Sheboygan and Fond du Lac probably will be in the second division. All the teams are in good, it is easily possible that the results will be entirely different from the dopers' surmises.

"Speed" Rustie's clever moundwork Sunday defeated the Chairmakers, 2 to 0, and allows them but one hit. The Smithmen find the going hard with Rustie on the mound, but still they connected with his offerings more frequently than with the Twin City pitchers and the score is likely to be back larger and more evenly balanced when the Appleton and Sheboygan clubs clash. However, the Papermakers generally hit the veteran Duster Braun hard and frequently so they may be expected to more than hold their own against Liebi's aggression. With proper support, Stuck found very little trouble in beating them before and no doubt he can do it again.

ROD AND REEL

TROUT FLIES—Part III

One of the new hair flies that has been making a killing around the various streams this season and promises to be a favorite with most anglers in the near future is the devil bug midget. They are tied on a No. 14 model perfect hook and more durable than the usual trout fly, being tied with copper wire. They have a natural shaven body that resembles a tiny moth or miller and they are easily floated, being as light as milkweed, glow and will float without the use of paraffin or oil. The natural hacktail hair used in the midgets can be manipulated with the fly rod, thus making them flutter by a slight trembling motion of the wrist and oftentimes a good sized rainbow can be lured to net by holding the tip of the rod high allowing these flies to skip along the water like a miller with wet wings trying to escape. In using these new flies the angler should let a trout have them a little longer than the usual feathered fly, and then strike.

One will find May and June generally, and even down stream, while in July and August one generally finds the "old timers" wading upstream and using dry flies. Evening fishing can be made more successful by fishing downstream, that is, after dark.

Dundee Gives Up Crown Of Feather King

New York—Johnny Dundee, veteran of 12 years in the ring, Wednesday forfeited his world's featherweight title, because he can no longer make the 126 pound limit.

Dundee who said he could continue to fight in junior lightweight ranks, announced his decision to the state athletic commission, which he asked to take custody of the featherweight crown until a new wearer is found.

The commission also announced it had lifted the suspensions of Harry Greb, world's middleweight champion, and "Kid" Norfolk, Negro pugilist, after similar action had been taken by Massachusetts ring authorities who suspended the two boxers after an unsatisfactory match in Boston last April.

Lorain, O.—Battling Siki Senagalee fighter, refused to continue his bout with Mike Conroy, Rochester, N. Y., in the eighth round.

CARROLL MENTOR SEES ROSY GRID PROSPECTS AHEAD

Twelve Veterans Will Serve as Nucleus for Eleven of Waukesha School

Waukesha—Carroll college which finished well up in the ratings of the Little Five conference football race last season, again has set its ambitions high, and with the nucleus of another fine team at hand, expects to give the fans something to talk about when play starts this fall.

Cocher Norris Armstrong, a producer of strong eleven, again is mentor at Carroll. Asked about the chances of his team this season, Armstrong says little more than "excellent," but his smile proclaims to the world that he has a few thoughts about the squad which are entirely pleasing.

When one has twelve good, tried veterans of the gridiron to start a team to say nothing of what the opening of school may bring in the form of recruits, one has reason to say of that team that its chances are excellent.

The veterans returning are: Bray, McMurray, Hertz, Stacy and Todd, all of Waukesha; Hoffert, Marinette; Schulz, and Stier, Beaver Dam; Dickinson, Janesville; Phenix and Beachnik, Green Bay, and Freckman, Milwaukee.

The revised schedule follows:
Oct. 4—Carroll at Milwaukee normal.
Oct. 18—St. Norbert's college at Carroll.
Oct. 25—Milton college at Carroll.
Nov. 1—Carroll college at Lawrence college.

Nov. 8—Ripon college at Carroll.
Nov. 15—Carroll at Northwestern college (Watertown).
Nov. 22—Lyola university at Carroll.

BARBERS WORK TO GET SET FOR GAME

Beauty Experts Work Out Daily in Preparation for Battle with Printers

HOW THEY STAND

Post-Crescents	3	0	1,000

Barbers	0	3	.000

If practice and hard work have any value, the Barbers will give the Post-Crescents a hard game Friday evening in the City League twilight baseball game scheduled for that day. The Razormen have been out every evening for a week getting set to give the Printers a trouncing and their drill seems to have helped them considerably.

The Barbers have yet to break into the win column. Their lack of practice and team work at the beginning of the schedule made them easy victims for all the other teams in the circuit, but now that they have set out to remedy this defect, they hope to escape from the cellar.

GIBBONS' DEMAND MAKES TUNNEY BOUT IMPOSSIBLE

Chicago—Tom Gibbons, St. Paul lightweight, will not meet Gene Tunney, American light heavyweight champion, in the Sky Blue arena at Michigan City, Ind., on Labor day.

Joe Coffey, matchmaker for the Michigan City interests, wired from New York Wednesday that Eddie Kane, Gibbons' manager, had demanded a $100,000 guarantee to box Tunney. This demand, Coffey advised, makes the match impossible for the date contemplated.

Oakland, Calif.—Willie Ritchie, former world's lightweight champion, failed in an attempted comeback and dropped a decision to Joe Simonich, Butte welterweight, in four rounds.

SHOE PITCHERS PLAN TO BUILD STATE OUTFIT

Barnyard Golfers Swing Into Action in Tourney at Dane-co Fair

Madison—Approximately 150 horse-shoe enthusiasts were ready Wednesday to start in the state horseshoe pitching tournament at the Dane-co fair here. Preliminaries in the tournament got under way Wednesday afternoon.

Twenty-four cities and towns are represented in the entries and will compete for the awards, totalling about $700. Among the places represented are: Racine, Milwaukee, Madison, Oregon, Fond du Lac, Oshkosh, Redburg, Evansville, Arlington, Waukesha, Lodi, Beloit, Black Earth, Sheboygan, Magnolia, Withee, Kenosha, Janesville, Hanover and Deerfield.

A conference of contestants will be held before the tournament closes to consider perfection of a state horseshoe pitchers' association. An annual state tournament also will be planned.

PRINTERS ACCEPT DEFI OF BAKERS

Stingle's Bakers have reached their objective and are scheduled to meet the Post-Crescent Twilight baseball club Monday afternoon at Jones park. The Dough Twisters issued a challenge to the Printers Wednesday through the Post-Crescent, and the Inkshingers accepted half an hour after the defi reached their notice.

The Post-Crescents have won all their games in the City Twilight league and have met defeat but once. This was at the hands of the Sixth Ward team outside the league and detracted little from the prestige of the Ink Shingers. The Sixth Warders are one of the strongest clubs in the city and are composed chiefly of members of various industrial teams.

The Printers plan to make the Bakers regret their temerity in issuing a challenge while the Bread Mixers are confident of their ability to stop the City League leaders.

Dodgers Pass Cubs In Pennant Chase By 3-2 Defeat Of Pittsburgh

Cardinals Take New Lease of Life at Expense of Phillies Whom They Defeat in Double Header, 3-1, 13-10.

Rounding the last turn for the wire, the Brooklyn Dodgers, hard-riden by Uncle Robbie are making a desperate bid to overhaul the league-leading Giants and the Pirates, in second place.

The Dodgers took the last game of the series from the Smoky City aggregation, 3 to 2, Wednesday after 11 innings, hard fought for their third successive victory, and went into third place in the league standing, passing the Cubs, who dropped both ends of a double header to the tail end Boston club, 2 to 0, 5 to 0. The Brooklyn club has come through in 12 of its last 14 starts, has taken six of the last seven games on the road, and now is only six and one half games behind the Giants, who remained idle Wednesday.

The Cardinals took a new lease of life at the expense of the Phillies, beating the Fletcher crew in both the curtain-raiser and night cap, 3 to 1 and 13 to 10, but are so far in the race that only a miracle can bring them into the money.

Only one game was played in the younger league, Boston nosing out Cleveland in a well-played contest, 5 to 4. Flagstead hero of the game, made four hits a sensational running catch and was instrumental in scoring three runs. The one other game scheduled, the St. Louis-Philadelphia argument, was postponed because of rain.

U. S. CONSTITUTION ISN'T ADAPTED TO THREE BIG PARTIES

Politicians Worried by Possibility That Third Party May Be Permanent

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
Washington — If Progressive-ism's development means a coming revision of America's voters into two new parties—liberal and conservative—that's one thing.

But if it means henceforward, three major parties instead of two, that's something altogether different.

There have been revisions before. During the process of redistricting, sometimes there have been more than two pretty big parties in the field. But in the end matters always have settled down to only two parties again.

A two-party system is what the country always has run on, in short.

It has had its little inequalities. There have been times when the president has been of one party and Congress of another. There have been times when the Senate has been one way and the House of Representatives some other way.

In the past years Congress even has been split three ways—Republicans and Democrats not far from evenly balanced and the Progressives holding the balance of power.

But since the present system of choosing a president has existed, in presidential elections one party, so far as concerns the presidential vote, always has been stronger than all others combined.

Now, however, there is a prospect that no presidential candidate will have a "majority over all," leaving it to Congress to pick out a White House tenant—and it's far from certain that Congress, split up as it is, can agree.

Should a special election have to be called after March 4, to settle the deadlock, with some temporary chief executive, like Secretary Hughes filling in, anybody can guess what a commotion would result.

And suppose the special election should result in a deadlock, too! All this would be bad enough once. It would be still worse if three parties remained in the field and it kept on happening, again and again, every four years.

It isn't impossible. It's a situation which actually exists in most European countries. Most of them have "coalition governments." That is to say, no one party has a majority over all the rest.

The only way an administration can hold office is by an agreement between two or more groups to work together for a while. Of course they don't agree very well. Such a government must necessarily be compromising all the time.

Still, in Europe, where "parliamentary government" generally prevails, it isn't so bad, because "parliamentary government" is more or less adapted to it.

The United States constitution isn't adapted to it at all. Here, the confusion would be terrific.

The supposition is, if Progressive-ism holds its own, that the progressive Republicans and Democrats will break away from their respective parties and join the Progressives; that the conservative Republicans and Democrats will combine.

Yet it may not work out that way. The Progressives may be here to stay and the Republicans and Democrats hang on.

This is worrying politicians a great deal.

City May Not Help Mother With Pension

A mother must choose between city pauper aid and mothers' pension, for she is not legally entitled to both, according to opinion given to John A. Lonsdorf, district attorney, by F. L. Bump, assistant attorney general. The attorney general's opinion was asked with a view to obtaining aid for an Appleton family in poor financial circumstances. The mother is now receiving mothers' pension, but this is not sufficient for her support. The law makes it impossible for one receiving mothers' pension to obtain other public aid.

COLLECTS PICTURES OF 200 Y. M. C. A. BUILDINGS

C. L. Boynton, membership secretary of the Y. M. C. A., is endeavoring to increase the number of photographs of Y. M. C. A. buildings on exhibition in the lobby of the Y. M. C. A. building before the opening of the membership campaign the latter part of September. More than 200 of the 400 Y. M. C. A. buildings on whom he wrote for photographs of their buildings responded and now Mr. Boynton is endeavoring to secure the remaining number. Photographs of more than 25 foreign buildings were received. They include all the principal countries of Europe. Several were received from China and South America.

EXPECT DAWES TO SPEAK IN VALLEY DURING CAMPAIGN

Republican Candidate for Vice President May Come to Appleton

The Fox river valley will be included in the itinerary of Charles G. Dawes Republican candidate for vice president, according to an announcement from the Coolidge-Dawes state headquarters in Milwaukee. Mr. Dawes may speak either in Fond du Lac, Oshkosh or Appleton, but the city has not as yet been chosen. The trip is being arranged by John E. Ferris, Milwaukee. Coolidge candidate for lieutenant governor, and will be made either late this month or late in September.

Mr. Ferris and Francis E. Davidson, Coolidge candidate for secretary of state, are touring the state stirring the Coolidge-Dawes Republican clubs to greater activity, and testing out the sentiment of voters in regard to the coming election. "While the LaFollette forces may win the Badger delegates because their leader is a Wisconsin man, it is not going to be a walkaway for the so-called Progressives and the voters may treat the LaFollette to a genuine surprise," Mr. LaFollette said. "Sentiment in favor of Coolidge and Dawes and the regular Republican platform is gaining strength rapidly and I find there will be many who will desert the LaFollette banner when they go to the polling places." Mr. Ferris takes an active part in planning the visit of the Wisconsin delegation to the home of Mr. Dawes upon the occasion of the formal notification ceremony Tuesday evening.
